

Blame It All On Me

There's fire on the doorstep
Searchlights in the hall
What a difference a day makes
Just to think that yesterday we had it all

Blame me for the sorrow
And the dark clouds in the sky
You can say you're justified
I'll be your alibi

You can blame it all
You can blame it all
You can blame it all on me
You can blame it all
You can blame it all
You can blame it all on me

The sirens sang their warning
And you just looked at me and laughed
Now I stand here inw the ruins
All alone with just these faded photographs

Frame me for the murder
Of the love you sent to die
And I'll pretend I never tried
I'll be your alibi

You can blame it all
You can blame it all
You can blame it all on me
You can blame it all
You can blame it all
You can blame it all on me

I gave everything I had
Just to keep this love alive
For the sake of what we had
I will look you in the eye
And tell this lie
