

Wrong

Sooner or later the evening turns to black
Sooner or later that cold truth throws you back
And you curse the time you ever felt the sun
When you find out you were wrong

Loves illusion yeah loves the sweetest lie
Like the way we used to kiss and close our eyes
When you think that it's the long road that you're on
And you find out you were wrong

Burning bridges is all I ever do
The kind of hurt I'm feeling now is nothing new
When you try to love somebody on the run
And you find out you were wrong

If I saw the truth would I recognise it
If I held you now would I let you go

It's a heartbreak to have play on your mind
When you lose somebody in the twist of time
When you're see the ties that bind you come undone
And you find out you were wrong

Someday you'll figure you're out here on your own
That a part of you will always be alone
And life is but a bittersweet song
When you find out you were wrong
